Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks in northwest Wyoming protect unique natural wonders that are known worldwide. They are the vacation destination for thousands each week. An alternative to staying in either Park while still enjoying their attractions is discovering the camping opportunities available in one of the nearby National Forests. Within 75 miles there are 75 campgrounds in seven National Forests and three states that encircle Yellowstone and Grand Teton. About the Author: The authors Fred and Suzanne Suzi Dow are a husband-wife team researching developed campgrounds located in National Forests throughout the United States. Starting in May 1996 the authors set off from Burke, VA in their 23-foot travel trailer.
